Learning Through Play: Sports teach valuable life skills like discipline, resilience, and the ability to handle both success and setbacks.

Opportunity: For some young people, this camp might be their first exposure to organized sports or flag football, potentially sparking a lifelong interest.

Affordable & Accessible: Being free and targeting those eligible for free school meals removes economic barriers, helping level the playing field.

Positive Breaks: The camp provides a structured and positive environment during school breaks, which can be a beneficial alternative to less supervised time.
